Are you noticing a common thread in all of the above?

Yes?

Then why am I sitting here tonight, years later, still suffering the stench pumped out by the white elephant of a stink factory... and paying 50 per cent more in my rates for the privilege?

No more notices, shut it down, now.

In a word, it stinks

FOR years the residents of this area have been saying the waste composting facility in Canning Vale stinks.

Liberal Party members have said it stinks. Labor Party members have said it stinks. Independents have said it stinks.

The former Minister for Environment shut it down and said it stinks.

The Department of Environment and Conservation shut it down and said it stinks.

Independent experts from overseas have studied it and proved beyond doubt that it stinks.

The Department of Environment and Conservation has told the operator to provide an odour abatement plan by a certain deadline (but have still done nothing) because it stinks.
